She has been a trailblazer in advocating for art as a form of activism and community development.

We Are Here: An Overview

We Are Here is a collaborative, multimedia project initiated by Suzanne Lacy, designed to create a platform for marginalized voices—particularly those of homeless individuals, youth, and disenfranchised communities—to share their stories publicly and artistically. The project employs a combination of live performances, video documentation, public discussions, and community workshops.

Launched in 2017, We Are Here seeks to confront issues of homelessness, social invisibility, and public perception. It invites communities to engage directly with their neighbors experiencing homelessness, fostering empathy, understanding, and collective action. The project exemplifies Lacy's signature methodology—using art as a means to generate dialogue, challenge stereotypes, and advocate for social justice.

The Core Components of We Are Here

Community Engagement and Participation

At the heart of We Are Here lies deep community involvement. Suzanne Lacy believes that meaningful social change begins with authentic dialogue and participation. To this end, the project features:

Story Circles and Workshops: Facilitated sessions where community members, especially those experiencing homelessness, share personal stories. These stories are then transcribed and used as material for artistic and public presentations.

Collaborative Art Creation: Participants collaborate on creating visual and performance art pieces that reflect their experiences and aspirations.

Public Performances and Installations: The stories and artworks are presented in public spaces? parks, city halls, and community centers? making invisible populations visible. This participatory approach ensures that those most affected have agency in shaping the narrative, transforming passive spectators into active contributors.

Multimedia Documentation and Artifacts Lacy integrates various media to document and amplify the community voices involved:

Video Interviews: Personal stories are recorded in interviews, capturing emotional depth and authenticity.

Photographic Portraits: Visual representations of participants humanize their experiences and challenge stereotypes.

Performance Art: Live enactments dramatize stories, creating visceral experiences for audiences.

Public Exhibitions: The stories, images, and performances are curated into exhibitions to reach broader audiences. Through this multimedia strategy, We Are Here bridges the gap between personal narratives and public consciousness, making invisible experiences visible and heard.

Advocacy and Policy Engagement Beyond artistic expression, We Are Here aims to influence public policy and community attitudes toward homelessness. By fostering empathy and understanding, the project encourages civic engagement and policy discussions. It often collaborates with local government agencies, nonprofits, and advocacy groups to:

- Highlight systemic issues contributing to homelessness.
- Promote affordable housing initiatives.
- Support services for homeless populations.

This engagement underscores Lacy's philosophy that art can serve as a tool for tangible societal change.

- Live Performances: Participants and artists enact scenes derived from the stories, often in public settings, blurring the line between performer and spectator.
- Community-led Events: Events designed and executed by community members themselves, fostering ownership and empowerment.

This methodology transforms art from an object into an ongoing process that reflects lived experiences.

Use of Public Space Lacy emphasizes the importance of contextualizing art within everyday environments. By utilizing public spaces? streets, parks, city halls? the project confronts viewers with real stories in real settings. This approach:

- Eliminates the barriers of gallery walls.
- Invites spontaneous engagement.
- Challenges perceptions about who belongs in public spaces.

The strategic use of space reinforces the message that social issues are not isolated but embedded within the urban fabric.

Narrative and Voice Storytelling is central to We Are Here. Lacy's technique involves:
